About California State Treasurer Fiona Ma, CPA

California is the world's fifth-largest economy. The Treasurer's Office provides financing for vital infrastructure, including schools, housing, roads, hospitals, and other public facilities. These are the facilities that better the lives of all Californians.

Treasurer Ma is the state's primary banker. Her duties include oversight of the state's surplus cash – monies invested pending disbursement. In addition, she operates an investment fund for more than 2,000 local agencies in California for their surplus cash. Taken together, these funds total billions of dollars and can range up to $100 billion. Her duties also include the sale of all state debt securities and management of California's general obligation indebtedness -- more than $75 billion outstanding.

Finally, as the state's banker, her office processes payments of funds aggregating more than $2.0 trillion per year.

She was elected California's 34th State Treasurer in 2018 with more votes (7,825,587) than any other candidate for treasurer in the state's history. Treasurer Ma is the first woman of color and the first woman Certified Public Accountant elected to the position.

As Treasurer, she is committed to making sound investments that safeguard public funds, expand jobs, improve education, and help combat climate change.
